

NEARLY 15,000
WERE KILLEDApalling Disaster in Russian
Turkistan

AN ENTIRE TOWN BURIED

Mountain, Weakened by Seismic Disturbances, Swept Off Its Base and Overwhelmed Karatagh—Only Two Known to Survive.

Tashken, Russian Turkistan, Oct. 30.—A mountain slide has swept the whole town of Karatagh in Boghara, burying the entire population of 15,000. The governor and his mother are believed to be the only survivors. The disaster followed the recent earthquake. The shocks occurred on October 20 and 21, and did great damage, but, so far as known, only two were killed at that time. They were struck by falling masonry.

Most of the people fled to the open country, but afterwards returned to their homes, which were overwhelmed when the mountain foundations, shifted by the seismic disturbances, suddenly slid down in the low lands. The news was brought by a messenger and there is little doubt that the casualties will be between 10,000 and 15,000.

Thousands have been slain in Russian Turkistan by earthquakes and landslides during the past few years. The disaster at Andijan, in December, 1902, when 5,000 were killed, was the worst up to this time.

GREAT LANDSLIDE
CUTS OFF TOWNS

West River Division of Central Vermont
Railroad Washed Out Badly Last Evening.

Brattleboro, Oct. 30.—A landslide occurred yesterday at five o'clock on the West River division of the Central Vermont railway, a mile this side of Willamsville, cutting off all towns above that station from communication by wire and railroad. For three hours it was not possible to get a team over the high pile of cliffs and trees that lay across the highway. Over 50 feet of embankment of the West River railroad was washed into the West river.

A wrecking train returned at 7:30 last evening for additional supplies to clear the track. Probably trains will be tied up on that division for 24 hours.

THIRD MAJOR LEAGUE
MAY BE FORMED

Trouble at Annual Meeting of the National Base Ball Association in New York on the First Day.

New York, Oct. 30.—Rumors of the formation of a third major league, of trouble to be made by the American association and the Eastern league, the two strongest of the minor leagues, unless they are given better protection and allowed the right to draft freely from the clubs lower down in the classification; rumors of protests from the Pacific coast league against the rule which declares outlaws all players who join the clubs of that league for the winter season; and rumors of a dozen other sensations, marked the opening of the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues in this city yesterday.

Practically nothing was accomplished at the opening session, and after two or three addresses, the secretary's report and the appointment of a couple of committees, the meeting was adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon, presumably for the purpose of discussing the warping factions with the idea of getting them together on the disputed points.

The secretary's report showed that there are 30 leagues affiliated with the association, comprising 193 clubs, representing 214 cities and 1,299 players.

At a meeting of the national board of the association, a number of disputes were adjusted.

HUNT SLAYER
OF YOUNG MAN

Who Was Found in Waldorf
Astoria Room

BEING BADLY BATTERED

Hotel Authorities Claim That Murder
Could Not Have Been Committed in Their Hotel, as Doors
Were Locked.

New York, Oct. 30.—Efforts are being made today to clear the mystery about the death of Herman Bradley Potter, jr., of Doylestown, Pa., who was found dead with a fractured skull and bruises all over the body in his room at the Waldorf Astoria hotel. The coroner's investigation left no doubt that the man died of injuries received in a violent struggle, but a note which was left to his wife, indicated that he was aware of his approaching death.

Manager Amory of the hotel, after examining the attendants, today said: "I learn that Potter was attacked and beaten Saturday night, but was all right up to noon yesterday. There is absolutely no possibility of his having been strangled in the hotel, as the doors near his apartment were locked on the inside. Our opinion is that he died of some development from injuries received in a struggle with ruffians on Saturday night."

DEMOCRATS OF VERMONT.

Old Guard Not Necessarily Being Crowded
Out, Says Jas. E. Burke.

James E. Burke of West Rutland, who is a frequent visitor to Barre, gives his opinion on inside politics in the Vermont Democratic party, in an interview with a reporter of the Rutland Herald. What he has to say is of local application, and is as follows:

"There is no organization among the young men of our day designed to replace the old guard. Many of them are doing noble work when the skies were dark; but the fact is we are running into a new Democracy and consequently a younger Democracy. I have recently been in Washington county and one can judge from the growth of the power and prestige of a younger Democracy when I tell you that the sentiment of the party is that coming in is favor of G. Herbert Pape of Barre to head the Vermont delegation to the Democratic national convention. Incidentally so far as I have heard, Washington county favors me for a member of the national Democratic committee. This, by the way, is substantially true in Addison, Chittenden and Franklin counties. I am a candidate for delegate to the Democratic national convention and when the time comes I shall ask the Democrats of Rutland county for their support. The mention of my name as national committee man has been favorably received by east-side Democrats in several counties."

DEEP EMOTION
PREVIOUS TO ACT

Lawyers for Defense of Fairbanks Try to Bring Out Americana Dementia in Efforts to Save Their Client.

Brattleboro, Oct. 30.—Sharp tiffs of opposing counsel over minute questions of law and an endeavor to get before the jury the previous record, particularly that of the last two years, of the life of William Fairbanks, now on trial for the murder of Mary Groat, show that the attorneys for the defense are taking every possible means to save the accused man from the gallows.

From yesterday's testimony it is evident that they rest their hope on one issue alone, that of insanity. Dementia Americana, as it is popularly known, will be their plea for leniency from the jury.

From every witness called, the defendant lawyers have tried to bring out that Fairbanks was unbalanced by some deep emotion previous to the shooting, and that after the affair he was not himself.

It is now evident that the intention of the defense is to enlarge upon the evidence produced by the state, when it was brought out that the accused man had threatened Mary's life, and that he had often exhibited spasms of emotion, in an effort to show the jury that these were fancies of a deranged mind.

SLIGHT CHANGE OF LOCATION.

Allowed the Central Vermont for It New Passenger Station.

The state railroad commissioners have acquiesced in the plan of the Central Vermont railroad to move the location of its proposed passenger station on Depot square a few feet to the south, east of the present building, thus giving more room for the freight depot on the northwest side. Deeds were passed yesterday by which Levi J. Bolster conveyed the large storehouse property, now occupied by S. H. Forstner, on West street, to the Central Vermont.

This is the first step in the changes which are expected to be made in this city by the railroad.

The present holder of the lease of the property still has nearly six years' hold on the place, and as yet no arrangement has been made with him for vacating the place. Some time ago he was approached by the railroad company and asked what his terms would be for immediate vacating of the lease. He made a proposition to the company and has not heard anything from them since. The proposition was for three months in which to leave the premises.

When the premises are cleared the Central plans to erect a freight station adequate to the fast-growing needs of the business here. The building will probably have entrances on Depot square and West street. This purchase of land will give the railroad a large stretch of yard room, with nothing but the Premier property intervening to make a clean sweep to Granite street. The erection of the freight depot will probably not come until after the passenger station, which the commissioners have ordered the company to build. Owing to the delay in closing up the deal for the property just purchased, the railroad asked the commissioners to be allowed to postpone the construction of the passenger station to next spring. It is likely, in view of the season of the year, that such permission will be extended.

TROUBLES STARTED SOON.

Between Dr. Harold A. Fiske and His Bride of Five Months.

Copies of the Los Angeles, California, Examiner tell of the domestic infidelities of Dr. Harold A. Fiske and wife, who visited the former's home in that city last summer on their honeymoon trip. They had been married only five months. It was on their way to Montpelier that the troubles started, as it is said that Mrs. Fiske became suspicious of her husband in Chicago, and an open breach came when they returned to California from the east. Dr. Fiske said that the trouble was the over-jealousy of his wife. She was Miss Marie Shirley, and claims that Jeannette Hazel was the cause of their differences.
